TERMS OF ADMISSION TO COLLEGE.

Candidates for admission to College must present satisfactory testimonials of good moral character; and, if from other Colleges, of unexceptionable standing.

Candidates for the Freshman Class are examined in the following books:

GREEK.

Xenophon's Anabasis, five books; Homer's Iliad,* three books; Greek Grammar, including Prosody.

LATIN.

Virgil; Cicero's Select Orations; Sallust; Harkness's or Andrews and Stoddard's Latin Grammar, including Prosody; Writing Latin (twenty exercises in Arnold's Latin Prose Composition, or an equivalent).

MATHEMATICS.

Arithmetic; Robinson's University Algebra, to Quadratic Equations; Robinson's Geometry, two books.

ENGLISH.

English Grammar; Ancient and Modern Geography.

Candidates for advanced standing, in addition to the above studies, are examined in the studies that have been pursued by the class which they propose to enter, or in others equivalent to them.

The times for examination are the Tuesday before Commencement, and the close of vacation immediately following.

Persons who desire to attend the Lectures and Recitations of particular departments only, may have that privilege, provided they are prepared to enter the studies of such department, and become subject to the laws of College, as other students, so far as may be designated by the Faculty.

NOTE. It is very important that the candidates for admission should be thoroughly prepared, particularly in elementary knowledge. The deficiency of many in Greek, Latin, and English Grammar, in Prosody, Latin Composition, Arithmetic and Geography, makes it necessary to require especial attention to these branches of the preparatory course.

* Felton's Greek Reader is accepted as an equivalent to these requisitions in Greek, or Jacobs's, Colton's, Owen's, Spencer's Greek Reader, with the four Gospels.
